

CHEM study advisor online reception

The study advisors' reception has moved online and is now organized in Teams every weekday from 12 to 14. During this reception time you can either start a chat or videocall with the study advisor who organizes the online reception on that day, check Into to find out which study advisor it is. You can also message the study advisors in Teams outside the reception hours if you see that the study advisor is online and available. The study advisors are also reachable by email or Telegram. You can find the contact information from Into.

You can still book a time for an individual meeting from Vihta, but the meeting will now be held in Teams as a videocall. The study advisors are still able to help you with technical problems as screen sharing is possible in Teams. The link to the Vihta booking calendar can be found in Into.
