Management and International Business

The year 2021-2022 was the last intake in the Master’s admissions for the MIB programme in its current form.

What does this mean to current students in the MIB programme?

Students currently in the MIB programme have two options:

1. To complete the MIB programme in its current form. Graduating from the MIB programme is possible until July 31, 2024. Please note that you will need to graduate at the latest in July 2024 - no exceptions can be made. Note also that the courses have changed starting from autumn 2022. See Programme studies 2022-2024 for more information on the course changes.

2. To transfer to one of the new programmes directly if you prefer them over the MIB programme:
   - (1) People Management and Organizational Development and
   - (2) Strategic Management in a Changing World.

Applying for transfer:
1. Create a new study plan in Sisu for the programme you would like to transfer to. Use the same format as for MIB study plan, i.e. change the Master's programme in your Bachelor's + Master's study plan if you have also completed your Bachelor's degree at School of Business. (Sisu might say that you don't have a valid study right but do not worry about this.) If you have already completed some MIB courses, don't forget to check the course equivalences of the courses in the new programmes.
2. Send an email to Kati Halminen (kati.halminen@aalto.fi) indicating to which programme you want to transfer.

There is no deadline for applications.

Please note that many of the core courses are the same or equivalent in the current MIB Programme and the two new programmes. For most students, graduating from the MIB programme is the preferable option.

What does this mean to current students in the BSc programmes planning to continue in MIB?

Starting from 1 August 2022, graduating Bachelor students cannot continue their studies in the MIB programme anymore. This means that if you complete your Bachelor's degree in August 2022 or later, you will need to choose another Master's programme. We recommend that you consider the two new programmes, People Management and Organizational Development and Strategic Management in a Changing World.
